

SoulSaplings

Grow a tree 🌱 . Grow a relationship ❤️

What is SoulSaplings?

SoulSaplings is a people-first tree growing initiative by Siri Eco Farm.

It connects individuals and organisations who want to grow trees but lack land, time, or the right conditions with farmers who nurture them naturally, while encouraging direct interaction and long-term relationships between farmers and consumers.

How does it work?

01

Choose to Grow

You choose a fruit tree you love.
We help ensure the plant suits the local climate and soil.

02

Farmer Identification

Suitable host farmers are identified based on location and suitability.

03

Sapling Contribution

Your one time nominal contribution covers the sapling, its delivery, and maintenance support.

04

Natural Care

Host farmers plant and care for the saplings using organic farming practices.

05

Replanting Guarantee

If a sapling fails during the first year, it is replanted at no additional cost.

Harvest Sharing Timeline

When the tree starts fruiting, the first harvest is shared with you. From the following seasons onward, the harvest naturally supports the farmer, unless both sides wish to continue sharing.

Regular updates and optional farm visits help build trust, connection, and a lasting relationship with the land and the farmer.

About Siri Eco Farm

Siri Eco Farm is a natural farming orchard inspired by Masanobu Fukuoka's Do-Nothing (Natural Farming) philosophy.

The farm is known for its work in citrus conservation, maintaining a living collection of 80+ citrus varieties, including native, heritage, and global types.

Alongside citrus, Siri Eco Farm actively works on indigenous tuber conservation, native and non-GMO seed saving, and education around soil health, biodiversity, and sustainable food systems.

SoulSaplings is a natural extension of this long-standing work, created to bring more people into meaningful, respectful collaboration with farmers and the land.
